PRECIOUS METALS COMMENTARY

Gold prices continue to creep higher and are at session highs in midday U.S. trading Friday. The yellow metal is making a decent recovery from the solid losses scored on Thursday.

A news report that Barrick Gold Corp. (NYSE: GOLD; TSX: ABX) is considering a hostile takeover of Newmont Mining Corp. (NEM) is another sign of the potential for continuing consolidation in the gold-mining sector and could help perk up investor interest in mining companies, analysts said.

U.S. President Donald Trump on Sunday raised hopes that the United States and China would settle their trade dispute ahead of a March 1 deadline as negotiators met to wrap up the latest round of talks. The U.S. president said in a tweet that the trade talks on Saturday were “very productive.” Talks were extended through the weekend in a bid to iron out differences on changes to China’s treatment of state-owned enterprises, subsidies, forced technology transfers and cyber theft. The two sides have had no agreement on an enforcement mechanism. Washington wanted a strong mechanism to ensure that Chinese reform commitments were followed through to completion, while Beijing insisted upon what it called a “fair and objective” process.
